Fish, Game Assn. Receive Okay On Projects

Lorne Perschweiller, secretary of the Coleman Fish and Game Association, received approval from the Water Resources Branch from Edmonton, to proceed with a project the Association wishes to complete this summer.

The lower end of Allison Creek has diverted itself into several smaller channels and the Association are going to dredge out the main channel of the stream and revert the stream back to its original channel.

The Association had also requested permission from the Water Resources Department to dam up a stream in the vicinity of Coleman and build a dam for fish stocking. A picnic site would also be built and established near the dam-site. This area would be similar to the Allison Creek project, undertaken by the Association several years ago.

The correspondence from the department suggested that as soon as the Association find a suitable site for this project that they notify Edmonton, who will send a representative of the Water Resources Branch to Coleman to look over the site, and if approved, to aid the Fish and Game in any way possible to complete the project.

A committee from the Association is presently looking over several sites in the near vicinity.

Council Discuss Sewerage Problems

Coleman council at its meeting Tuesday night, July 13th, devoted the major portion of the evening to problems regarding installation of the sewerage system.

Feruccio DeCocco, spokesman for residents on Fourth street (highway 3) reported extremely dusty conditions of the highway causing a nuisance to home-owners. The dust was created when the highway at this point was torn up for sewerage installations and then coal trucks and other vehicles, including the present flow of tourist traffic, is churning up the dust, creating an aggravating condition.

Council authorized steps to be taken to either oil the road or tear it up completely, scarify it and then apply gravel and oil.

By-law 346 had its first reading and will provide authority for the town to borrow $21,000 to cover the cost of an extension of the sewerage system. While reading the by-law councilmen completely checked a map showing all of the extra areas that will be serviced by the extensions.

Council approved payment of the sum of $19,000 to cover a progress sheet of costs to the construction company installing the sewerage system. Council withheld payment on an item until it is checked by the committee in charge.

Approval was given for the purchase of eight blue and white playground signs that will be erected in the park, school and playground areas.

Reports received by the council indicated that local and out-of-town truckers with units for pumping sewage at the Elko dump. These parties will be informed by council that if sewage is dumped at the nuisance grounds it must be covered immediately.

Council approved an application from Robert E. Lane of Lethbridge to operate a barber shop in the Montabetti block on main street, provided he has the required qualifications.

Councillor John Owen, also a member of the Board of Trustees of the Coleman School District, on behalf of the school, enquired if the town would provide 100 feet of water pipe to be installed in the school playground area where trees are to be planted and some land.

Color Television In 1967

Color television broadcasting will be permitted in Canada starting January 1st, 1967, according to Secretary of State Maurice Lamontagne.

Mr. Lamontagne, in a recent press statement, said the CBC would spend about $15,000,000 on color telecasting facilities for the 1967 World's Fair at Montreal.

Canadian electronics industry personnel are predicting rapid acceptance of color TV in major cities, estimate sale of approximately 100,000 color sets annually by 1967 or 1968.

Landscaping Under Way at Crestview

Landscaping was the main topic of discussion when the board of the Crestview Lodge held its July meeting at Pincher Creek.

So far 90 loads of top soil have been hauled in preparation for work to be carried out next year. This top soil was donated by the town of Pincher Creek.

Inquiries are also being made for a sidewalk to be put along the Lodge.

Chairman T. V. Hammond moved a vote of thanks on behalf of the board to Joe H. Hanrahan who represented Coleman on the board. Mr. Hanrahan is being transferred to Lethbridge. A replacement for Mr. Hanrahan on the board will be made by Coleman town council.

William Fairbrother Passes July 20

Mr. William Fairbrother, age 58 years, beloved husband of Mrs. Doris Fairbrother, passed away in the Crows Nest Pass Municipal Hospital on July 20.

He was born in Goldburn, Lancashire, England, on January 6th, 1907, and came to Canada settling in Corbin in 1929, working there until 1934 in the coal mines.

He moved back to England and worked in the mines there until 1946, and then moved to Coleman where he resided until his death.

In 1932 he married the former Doris Ball in Coleman. Prior to his death he was employed by the Crows Nest Pass Hospital as an engineer. He was a former member of the UMW. A brother predeceased him in England.

Survivors include his wife Doris of Coleman; two sons, Roy of Burmis, Bruce of Coleman, and one grandchild.

Funeral services were conducted from Fantin's Hillside Chapel on Thursday, July 22 at 2 p.m. with Mr. George Saltmarsh of the Jehovah's Witness, Fort Macleod, officiating. Interment followed in the Coleman Union cemetery.

Oldest And Largest Tree In Alberta Is Felled

A 99-foot-high Douglas fir growing in the Porcupine Hills, was felled to be the oldest tree in the province of Alberta, was cut on July 9.

The tree was cut by the Crows Nest Pass Forestry Department of Blaimore, who wanted cross sections of the tree to be sent to the Forestry School at Hinton for display purposes. The tree was also beginning to die.

The forest giant when cut measured 95 feet long plus a three-foot stump, circumference of 23.5 feet on the stump where it was cut and the diameter of the stump measured seven feet.

Garry Bielert, a Forester from Blaimore, counted the rings and determined the age of the tree, which is estimated to be over 400 years.

The cutting operation took exactly one hour's time and was done by Rudy Yeliga, a power saw salesman of Coleman; Fred Facco, Forestry Department Land Use Officer of Blaimore, and Harold Canske, Ranger at the Porcupine Ranger Station, and the cutting was supervised by Forestry Superintendent Alfred Longworth of the Blaimore Forest Service Offices.

A special power saw was used to cut the "grand-daddy" of them all.

The tremendous tree was located by the Forestry Department while making helicopter air surveys of the district. The tree was in excellent condition and was solid clear through.

OF MANY THINGS (By Ambrose Hills)

Conflict Of Interest

The interest of the man who produces is opposite to that of the man who consumes. One wishes to sell high, the other to buy low. Thus their interests are poles apart and cannot be reconciled.

Society gains from this difference. Producers vie with each other to meet the requirements of the consumer - and we are all consumers a large part of the time.

It seems to me that some members of the co-operative movement go wrong when they are blind to this fact of life. They promote the idea of a Ministry of Co-operatives to advance the cause of both consumer co-ops and producer co-ops as if they were not in conflict.

Another anomaly is the claim by some producer co-operatives, that they provide "Service at cost". At whose cost? I believe farmers, in particular, must wonder at this service-at-cost claim. Certainly it is hard to visualize a society in which everyone sells to the farmer at cost while he, as a producer, hopes to continue to sell at a profit. Inasmuch as consumers vastly exceed farmers in number, it is clear that they soon would be demanding "produce at cost", and the farmers would go down the drain with all others who practice service for profit.

It is often highly unpopular to say anything that could be construed as criticism of the co-operative movement. The co-operative principle has great merit. Yet when those who espouse the present set-up of producer and consumer co-ops go overboard, someone needs to throw some light on where their arguments could lead us.

The co-operative business is big business today and growing by leaps and bounds. All co-operatives, producers and consumer alike, are allowed special tax privileges.

And through a system of crediting dividends to members but retaining them for further development, the co-ops as an average pay six per cent corporation tax against 52 per cent paid by firms they compete against. It is easy to see where profit-motivated business will get off at in the next 40 or 50 years. Where will the taxes come from then? I believe there are many people in the co-operative movement itself who feel that they should be carrying a fairer share of the cost of running the country.

Don't Forget How It Was Done!

A famous golfer used to tell amateurs their fault lay in remembering their bad shots instead of concentrating on the good ones, and how they were achieved. A famous writer advised amateurs on how to invoke the mood of success which led to each saleable piece of writing. Now the chairman of the board of a great oil company has come up with a similar bit of advice for our Canadian society as a whole.

Mr. C. D. Shepard, of BA Oil, told a luncheon meeting in Brandon the other day, that "we are all in our respective busy lives apt to forget why and how this country grew great and why we have a great future. We are apt to concentrate on the imperfections we see around us and to forget that other forms of government which are not favorably disposed toward private enterprise have even more imperfections."

He pointed out that Canada is the second richest nation in the world; we rank second in ratio of cars and television sets to population, to name only two items. We are out-ranked by the U.S.A. - a country that also favors private enterprise.

Some will object that these are material blessings. So they are. But we are blessed in spiritual things as well - we have freedom of speech, freedom of religion, and economic freedom. Many believe that this spiritual freedom lies at the bottom of our material success, because wherever freedom is limited, material success does not last.

So perhaps the golfer's advice should apply to Canadians. Don't forget our successes, and how we achieved them. After all, we did not get where we are through sheer luck. Our democratic system deserves a lot of credit.

We would be wise to retain it.

VIEWING HIGHLIGHTS FOR THE COMING WEEK

JULY 31st - AUGUST 6th
"Room at the Top", starring Laurence Harvey, Heather Sears and Simone Signoret, an Academy Award-winning performance, will be telecast on CBC-TV's Great Movies Saturday, July 31st, at 9 p.m. It's an intense drama about a young man on the make in a place where it's all too easy to be engulfed by the poverty and squalor of an industrial community. Completely ruthless, and without any of the social graces, he claws his way to the top by using and discarding people.

CBC-TV's World of Sport takes to the water on Sunday, August 1, with television coverage of the Royal Canadian Henley Regatta and the Canadian Diving Championships. At 2 p.m. highlights of the 83rd Henley — from the one mile, 550-yard course on the old Welland Canal near St. Catharines, Ont. — will include the singles, doubles, fours and heavy eights. Commentators are Ward Cornell and former diamond sculler Bobby Pearce.

Canada's outstanding divers take over the second half of World of Sports at 3 p.m. when Ted Reynolds and Ernie Magan report on the Canadian Diving Championships held at Red Deer.

Moving along to 10 p.m. Sunday, Compass presents an exclusive interview with the Italian movie idol Marcello Mastroianni, in Rome on the set of his latest movie, "The Tenth Victim". The interview will be conducted by Peter Pearson.

"September 1915 — December 1915" is the sub-title of the Great War series Tuesday, August 3rd at 8 p.m. This is the story of the German offensive at Gorlice-Tarnow at which the Russians suffered a shattering defeat, while in the west the British and the French are routed at the battle of Champagne. Mishandling of the British reserves in the battlefield leads to the recall of Sir John French, who is replaced by Sir John Haig.

Generation, a new series of programs, deals with the dialogue or lack of it between young people and adults begins Wednesday, August 4th at 10:30 p.m.

It examines the gap between the generations, and attempts to bridge it in a two-way communication on various topics of interest to both groups. The first program entitled "Fisherman's Son" deals with the dilemma of young people in the Maritimes who have difficulty finding careers in their native surroundings.

Telescope, Friday, August 6th, at 9:30 p.m. will visit with expatriate Canadian artist Jean-Paul Riopelle in his studio in Paris and in the South of France where he enjoys sailing. Later in the program art critic Pierre Schneider of Paris L'Express offers an assessment of the French — Canadian painter's work.

The Key To The Future

An automobile manufacturer announces that keys to its cars will be notched on both sides. This means that the motorist will not be able to put the key in the lock wrong way up, because there will be no wrong way up.

It not only opens up the lock more readily, but vistas of an improved civilization.

There are other things that could be worked out to lighten the motorist's burden: one-way streets that can be entered at either end; an electric eye that would put on the brakes when the light turns red; a ray to dematerialize pedestrians momentarily when a motorist is in a hurry; corners that can be seen around so that motorists don't have to stop on crosswalks and usurp other citizens' rights of passage; horns that ring doorbells instead of waking up the whole neighborhood, for people who call for friends who don't waken as easily as the rest of us do; buffers to polish instead of bumpers to dent the unreasonably irate motorist's fenders; self-renewing licences with self-financing features; tires that go flat only on the top side of the wheel; automatic steering for the car with the television set; the dashboard grill for outdoor picnics when rain might otherwise keep the motorist family confined at home; instant fires to point to when the policeman asks if you think you're going to one; garage doors that not only automatically open when Dad brings home the car but automatically stay shut when Johnny tries to take it out.

This, we are sure, is only the beginning of a list of things that must come if the motorist is to have the kind of life to which his instincts are already accustomed. But the double-edged key is already here.

This gives us all new hope that many a tribulation which we have felt almost as keenly as trying to get a key right-side-up may soon be as obsolete as the car we are still paying installments on.

PRIVATE WATER SYSTEMS

All farmers or persons planning on purchasing new water purifiers or water softeners for private water systems should deal only with properly licensed reputable firms. In most cases local hardware stores are able to deal with any water problems that may arise. These local agents may be trusted and any problems involving the new system may be easily rectified by them.

Local health authorities have received complaints from farmers who have purchased water softeners and so-called water purifiers from unscrupulous salesmen. Some salesmen will conduct on-the-spot chemical analysis that may be misleading. A complete and accurate chemical analysis of water may be obtained at no cost from the health department. A chemical analysis of water should be performed by a professional analyst.

Following are recommended limits of chemical impurities as set by public health standards:

	Parts per million
Total solids	500
Hardness	1000
Sulphates	250
Chlorides	250
Alkalinity	400
Nitrogen	nil
Nitrates	10-30
Iron	0.3
Sodium chloride	700
Sodium sulphate	1400
Magnesium sulphate	1400

False claims such as the removal of glaucous salts have been reported to this department. Glaucous salts cannot be removed from the water without using methods which are very expensive and require trained operators. Iron may be removed by means of a zeolite softener if the concentration of iron is less than 1 part per million. Larger concentrations of iron will precipitate causing the filter to clog and cost the grains of zeolite. If there is over 1 part per million of iron present in the water an iron removal unit can be installed before the water is filtered through the zeolite softener.

Again thanking you and your colleagues for the support given to the 1965 Red Shield Appeal.

Cordially yours,

ALBERTA SECURITIES COMMISSION ... protection for Alberta's investors

Canada's economic development has led to a marked increase in financial offerings of stocks, bonds, shares and debentures — particularly in Alberta where there has been a substantial increase in local issues. Protection of investors in Alberta is provided by the Attorney General's Department through the Alberta Securities Commission.

All firms offering shares must first file a prospectus with this Commission, and a copy of the prospectus must be delivered to every buyer before completion of the purchase. The Commission ensures the prospectus makes full, plain and true disclosure with regard to the company, its officers, financial status and the nature of the security offered.

Another function of the Securities Commission is to guard against fraud connected with the sale and distribution of shares. It has an overall supervision of firms and individuals selling shares and debentures. Every broker, investment dealer, broker-dealer, security issuer and their sales representatives must be approved and registered with the Alberta Securities Commission before legally engaging in business.

The Commission has, and exercises, wide investigation powers and is continually conducting audits and investigating complaints lodged with it by the public. In national and international fields the Alberta Securities Commission works in close cooperation with similar commissions in other provinces of Canada and the Securities Exchange Commission in the United States.

The Alberta Securities Commission also administers The Investment Contracts Act, The Mortgage Brokers Act, The Cemeteries Act where applicable to commercial cemeteries, The Prearranged Funeral Services Act and The Deposits Regulations Act.

Alberta is a good province in which to invest money—The Alberta Securities Commission helps keep it that way.
